`AN OPPORTUNITY FOR MAKING A PRICELESS CONTRIBUTION TO THE CHILDREN OF SOUTH AFRICA'.

THE KWAZULU-NATAL CHILDREN’S HOSPITAL, DURBAN
New Child-Health Needs, New Programmes, New Facilities
At the beginning

Mary Seidle and her husband Otto

Mary Siedle and her husband, Otto, a businessman who became a pillar of the community in Durban. He also played a key role in the city’s orchestra, and helped to develop many artistic and musical amenities.

RIGHT: At the opening of the Addington Children’s Hospital on July 7, 1931, Mary Siedle, second from left, chats with nurses and doctors, dressed in the uniform of the day.
1931
incorporates the artwork of Mary Steinbank, a peer of Henry Moore who together with close friend and fellow woman artist Wildeford Vann-Hall produced beautiful statues, stained glass windows and ceramics which adorn the hospital.
South Africa's Struggle for Freedom,
Freedom from Tyranny
Freedom from ill health, disease and want,
Freedom from racial oppression
Phase 2 commenced 2013
from the bowels of the old emerge the sinews of the new
It used courtyards, large fenestration to maximize light and airflow with freestanding Pavilions and towers as focal elements.
Fixing the Nurses Home to 2014

Phase 2C – Old Nurses Home

Old Nurses Home - May 2014
The Outpatients Building

Renovated OPD building

Waiting area